I might be one of the only gals you meet who loves everything about British rock (Coldplay, Keane, Oasis, and Blur) but can't stand Mumford. Please don't hold that against me. I wouldn't necessarily classify myself as sporty, but I believe it's important to remain active with badminton, triathlons, and half marathons (but don't worry, drinks would do just fine for a first date!). Though I came here from Galway more than 10 years ago, I can't seem to shake my Irish accent but I'm told it adds to my charm 😊 Hope you agree!

I am inquisitive by nature and love to try anything at least once. I also have an ever-expanding bucket list, and am hoping to tick off some things in the next few months, including music writing and taking ballroom dance classes. Speaking of which, I have been known to cut a rug to some Rihanna (though nothing beats going to see a live band!). Travel is very high on my priorities list and I'm excited about two upcoming trips: Hawaii and the Dominican Republic. I've spent a considerable amount of time camping and traveling around this vast, beautiful country and abroad and am always open to travel suggestions. Please send them along!

I am currently an accountant and a licensed CPA. Though I work hard, I know how to balance a relationship in my life and would really like to meet someone I could share the trivialities of a day at work and the big picture things with. I'm really online looking for a serious connection but I believe in taking things slow and establishing a friendship first. Call me old fashioned, but it's nice to be courted. I believe in the beauty of small gestures, too, and love to make the person I'm dating feel special.

It's important for me to meet someone who is passionate, confident, and down-to-earth. I love a man with a good sense of humor and someone who is open to trying new experiences. I consider myself to be caring and compassionate and would really like to find these traits in a partner as well. Men who are intelligent and well versed in the goings-on in the world are incredibly sexy to me.

If it sounds like we'd make a good fit, please drop a line! I look forward to hearing from you.
